Performance & Capability

Under the hood of the 2023 Land Rover Defender 110 S sits an Ingenium 2L I-4 direct injection DOHC intercooled turbo premium gasoline engine producing 296HP. Paired with a smooth ZF 8-speed automatic transmission, this powertrain delivers seamless power delivery while achieving an EPA-estimated 17 city / 20 highway MPG. Equipped with full-time All-Wheel Drive and an electronic transfer case shift, the Defender utilizes Terrain Response selectable modes to adapt to changing surface conditions effortlessly. Independent front short and long arm suspension alongside an independent multi-link rear suspension ensure balanced handling and dynamic stability on any road surface. Driver assistance systems such as Hill Launch Assist and Hill Descent Control work alongside Electronic Traction Control and Dynamic Stability Control with Roll Stability Control to maintain complete confidence behind the wheel.

Technology & Connectivity

The cabin of the Defender 110 S is packed with advanced technology designed to keep you seamlessly connected. At the center of the dashboard is the 10.2-inch primary display touchscreen running the Connected Navigation PIVI Pro integrated navigation system with voice activation. The driver benefits from a 12.3-inch Interactive Driver Display, providing clear digital and analog instrumentation right in your line of sight. Integration is simple with wireless Apple CarPlay and Android Auto smart device mirroring, supported by front wireless smart device charging and five USB ports for passenger devices. Audio clarity is exceptional thanks to the 400W 11-speaker Meridian sound system featuring a digital signal processor. Navigating tight spaces is effortless with the 3D Surround Camera aerial view camera system, ClearSight Ground View technology, and 360 Parking Aid front and rear sensors.
