The 2023 Defender 130 S is the extended variant of the off-roader, lengthening the rear overhang to provide a full-size third row. This configuration accommodates eight passengers while maintaining the rugged silhouette and signature design cues of the shorter models. It is built on a unibody architecture that balances heavy-duty capability with refined on-road manners.

Performance

The 130 S is powered by a 3.0-liter P300 turbocharged inline-six engine featuring mild-hybrid technology. This powertrain produces 296 horsepower and 347 lb-ft of torque, paired with an eight-speed automatic transmission. Standard electronic air suspension and an all-wheel-drive system allow for significant off-road prowess, including a towing capacity of up to 8200 pounds and a wading depth of nearly thirty-six inches.

Design

The exterior features an imposing length, LED headlights, and a side-hinged tailgate with a full-size spare tire. Inside, the cabin blends durable materials with finishes like Grained Leather 12-way heated electric memory seats. The extended body allows for a 2+3+3 arrangement, and a sliding panoramic roof ensures the interior feels airy across all rows.

Technology

The dashboard features the Pivi Pro infotainment system on an 11.4-inch touchscreen. It supports wireless smartphone integration and navigation that functions without a cellular signal. Occupants benefit from a Meridian Sound System and multiple USB-C charging ports distributed throughout the cabin to keep devices powered during expeditions.

Advanced Safety Features

Safety is integrated through driver-assistance technologies, including a 3D Surround Camera system. Standard features include Lane Keep Assist, Blind Spot Assist, and Emergency Braking. It also utilizes a Wade Sensing system to monitor water depth in real-time and Traffic Sign Recognition to keep the driver informed of road conditions.

Convenience and Comfort

The 130 S includes three-zone climate control as standard for the rear rows. The interior offers storage solutions, such as padded armrests for third-row passengers and a cargo area that remains functional with all seats in use. Entry and exit are simplified by the adjustable air suspension, which lowers the vehicle for easier access.
